While Patriot.TV's digital-first strategy continues to pay off, legacy media giants remain stagnant or in decline:

- CBMJ (OTCID:CBMJ) +296.48% in the past month, +127.49% this week, +63.64% today
- Newsmax (NMAX) Down 20% since mid-July
- • Fox Corp. (FOX) Flat to -2% in the past month
- Sinclair Broadcast Group (SBGI) Flat performance
- • Warner Bros. Discovery (WBD) -7%, following weak cable results
- • Paramount Global (PARA) -2% month-to-date
- • The Walt Disney Company (DIS) -3%, amid cable and ESPN subscriber losses deteriorates. Patriot.TV, in contrast, is gaining loyal audiences with fact-based, pro-America content from recognizable hosts. Companies that are more right leaning Including Newsmax (NMAX), Fox (FOX), and Sinclair (SBGI) have fared significantly better but none even close to Conservative Media Broadcast and Journalism (CBMJ) have.

"There's a growing void where trust used to be in legacy media, and we're filling that void with programming people can believe in," said Mark Schaftlein, CEO of CBMJ. "Patriot.TV is succeeding because it doesn't pander, it delivers truth, accountability, and perspective. And the results are clear in both our audience numbers and our stock."

2. Streaming Dominates - Cable Collapses

While cable networks report steady subscriber loss, CBMJ's Patriot.TV is optimized for streaming, available on Rumble, and directly through web and mobile platforms. The company's alignment with the streaming revolution has positioned it for rapid scaling and monetization.

Patriot.TV's performance leap follows the appointment of JD Rucker as CEO of the platform. Since taking the helm, Rucker has spearheaded aggressive expansion efforts including:

- Launching new original programs like "The JD Rucker Political Report", "Wayne Dupree Show", and "This Is My Show with Drew Berquist."
- Elevating underrepresented conservative voices while reinforcing factual, principled commentary
- Signing a major partnership deal with Evergreen Media Partners, significantly boosting advertising, production, and distribution capabilities

Patriot.TV's 1.6 million monthly viewers on Rumble (a new record as of July) is just the beginning. With a nationwide rollout of new streaming partnerships and the addition of high-profile conservative hosts, CBMJ is rapidly capturing market share from traditional broadcasters.

As Warner Bros. Discovery and Disney announce declines in their core TV divisions, CBMJ is charting a different path, one that aligns with shifting viewer behaviors and investor priorities.
